

Twin Cities Modern Module

Challenges & Opportunities for Saving America's Modern + Recent Past Architecture

modernism + recent past program

Save the Date: October 27

The National Trust for Historic Preservation welcomes the public to a fun and free event to celebrate, discuss, and debate the modern heritage of the Twin Cities. Why do we want to preserve modern architecture? Our entire mid-century building stock — schools, libraries, gas stations, and skyscrapers that rose during the post World War II boom years — is aging and at risk for demolition, yet most structures from this period are undocumented and unprotected.

Join us for an exciting evening on Tuesday, October 27, 2009, as a panel of experts delves into the critical issues facing Minnesota's historic structures and landscapes, including a public forum where you can offer comments and ask questions about the issues that matter to you! Then stick around for cocktails at the reception, where you'll have the opportunity to exchange ideas and learn from the work of your fellow preservationists around the state and across the country.

Please email christine_french@nthp.org to RSVP and receive updates for the event. Visit our website at www.preservationnation.org/trustmodern to learn more about the M+RP Program.

Photos courtesy of Alexandria Easter, Victoria Young, 2009.

NATIONAL TRUST FOR HISTORIC PRESERVATION®

This event is sponsored by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Henry Luce Foundation and is being hosted in cooperation with the Preservation Alliance of Minnesota, Preserve Minneapolis, DOCOMOMO MN, and the Minnesota Historical Society.